CONGRER ASKS FOR AID.

Situation In China Is Very Critical.

"BOXERS" NOW SURROUND PEKING.

Fears of Massacre Within the City. Rear Admiral Kempff's Flagship Is at Taku, Where One Hundred Marines Have Been Landed.

Washington, May 30.—Such advice as have reached here indicate that the situation in China has assumed a critical phase and one calculated to tax the entire resources of the Chinese government. The state department has been in close communication with Mr. Conger, our minister in Peking, and the navy department is doing its share, having placed the battleship Newark as far up the Peiho river as the Taku forts, which is the nearest point to Peking that the ship can reach. The operations of the "Boxers" are increasing in magnitude. Their demonstrations are no longer local and they appear to be gathering in their numbers by some well settled design. They have murdered nine Methodist missionaries in one province, in the town of Paochow, and have closed in on Peking. Meanwhile the Chinese army is suspected of disloyalty, this belief being strengthened by wholesale desertions of the soldiers to the "Boxers."

Conger Wants Aid.

Minister Conger has appealed to the state department for the protection of a marine guard for his legation. The department promptly has sent him an authorization to call upon the nearest United States naval vessel for assistance. It is not known yet whether he has availed himself of the permission. The ship he naturally would look to would be the Newark, and it is assumed that he has already communicated with Rear Admiral Kempff on board that flagship.

According to reports the Chinese government has done everything in its power to meet the demands of the diplomatic body at Peking for the dispersion of the "Boxers," but it appears that the uprising is more serious than at first was apprehended, and even the resident ministers in Peking are inclined to admit that the task is not an easy one for the Chinese government.

We Are Not "Mixing."

So far all of the measures taken by the state department look to the simple protection of the American legation at Peking, the American consulates in the vicinity and the lives of such Americans as may be obliged to take refuge therein in the event of general rioting. The state department is closely adhering to the practice it always has observed of noninterference in the Chinese disturbances, and it is not contemplated that our naval forces shall take any part in the contest between the Chinese government and the "Boxers," though it is assumed that Rear Admiral Kempff, the commander in chief of the Asiatic station, will take immediate steps to supply to Rear Admiral Kempff, the senior squadron commander, such naval force as he may need for safeguarding American interests at the treaty ports.

Peking In Grave Danger.

London, May 30.—The Daily Express has the following from Shanghai, dated Tuesday:

"The rebellion continues to grow in intensity, and the gravest fears are entertained of its ultimate extent. The foreign envoys at Peking, fearing a massacre within the capital, have decided to bring up the guard of the legations. The rebels are now massing outside of Peking, and their numbers are reported to be constantly augmenting. Fresh contingents of armed volunteers are being sent up almost hourly from the north. The position of the missionaries is one of extreme peril, and is especially threatening. It is feared that they will meet with the same fate as their unfortunate converts, whom the 'Boxers' are ruthlessly murdering."

United States Marines Landed.

Tientsin, May 30.—A hundred American marines from the United States cruiser Newark are expected here. An armed rescue party of Frenchmen and Germans started yesterday afternoon to try to relieve the besieged Belgians. The French consul, under the pressure of the French cabinet, has permitted the resources to travel by railroad to Peking, where Chinese protection exists. A detachment of 200 Chinese soldiers has cleared the railway between here and Peking and the ordinary service was resumed at noon. Thirty Japanese have arrived from the gunboat Atsugaki. The French flagship D'Estimotez and the gunboat Surprie have left Taku.

Shamokin Mine Still Burning.

Shamokin, Pa., May 30.—The Bonanza mine, operated by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company, was accidentally set on fire one year ago, and 200 men were rendered idle. The mine was flooded with water and coal, and it was recently believed the fire had been smothered. While men were half way down the incline yesterday a moving column of fire discovered the true burning as before. Several hundred men now have sunk in order to reach a number of old beams where the fire is supposed to be the worst.

President Going to Antietam.

Washington, May 30.—President McKinley and some members of his cabinet go to Antietam today to attend the dedication of the monument to the Union and Confederate soldiers. The special train will run over the Baltimore and Ohio line, leaving Washington at 9:30 a. m., and returning at 7:30 p. m.

TWELVE SHOT IN ST. LOUIS.

Three Mortally Wounded—Busy Day For Police.

St. Louis, May 30.—There was whole sale shooting yesterday, and the casual ties from bullets outnumbered those of any day since the strike began three weeks ago. As the result of three serious riots 12 persons were shot, three mortally and the others seriously. Several of the victims will be laid out for life.

Among the wounded were two boys and a girl, scarcely in their teens, who say that they were just looking on to see the excitement. One of the boys was probably fatally injured.

It is said by the persons in the crowd that the cars were not attacked, but the crowd's desire they were assaulted with stones and shot into the mobs in self defense. Three of the wounded are non-union employees, one is a special policeman, and the remainder are citizens who were in the crowd which drew the fire of the armed guards employed by the transit company.

When the transit company tried to operate three of its lines yesterday morning, the cable was found spiked with iron rods on one division, and the tracks were obstructed with large piles of rocks and iron which it required several hours to remove.

On account of the impediments to traffic the postmaster yesterday filed a supplementary petition asking for an amended injunction restraining all the members of the Street Railway union from interfering with the operation of the mail cars by obstructing the tracks on certain lines.

RATHBONE DEFIES ARREST.

Says He Is Going to Leave Cuba on Saturday.

Havana, May 30.—E. G. Rathbone, former director of posts of Cuba, announced yesterday that he would sail for New York on Saturday. This course is understood to have been decided upon by the advice of friends.

It had been stated that Mr. Rathbone, while not under arrest, would not be permitted to leave the island. He cannot be detained without a definite criminal charge being laid against him, and if he carries out his purpose of leaving the island, it will be used as to whether the authorities have any charge on which he can be held.

It is said that while the investigation into his affairs showed the grossest carelessness so far nothing criminal has been disclosed.

Mr. Rathbone intends going to Washington. Until a few days ago he believed he would be reinstated.

Auditor Reeves, who, after making a confession of what he knew of Charles E. W. Neely's operations, was allowed to be at large under surveillance, was re-arrested yesterday.

A determined effort is being made by the friends of Neely to get Gordon Rich, whose confession established much of Neely's alleged stealing to be traced, away from the authorities in Cuba and back into the United States.

Twelve Killed by Poisoned Food.

Montgomery, Va., May 30.—Twelve men dead from eating poisoned provisions they had stolen is the dreadful result of what a negro cook thought was a clever bit of strategy. The dead were all members or relatives of one family. They had broken into and robbed a contractor's storehouse of packages of dried meat and sacks of flour. They went with their poisoned booty, little dreaming of its deadly power, to a cave several miles away. There each partook of the food. There was enough poison in the lot to kill a regiment. Their sufferings must have been fearful, for when the 12 bodies were found they lay in all manner of attitudes.

Movements of Warships.

Washington, May 30.—The battleship Kearsarge, now being inspected by the naval inspection board in Hampton Roads, has been ordered to proceed to Tompkinsville at the conclusion of the inspection. She will go into drydock at the New York navy yard June 1. Admiral Watson on the battleship Oregon, returning to the United States from Manila, has touched at Singapore. The Don Juan de Austria has arrived at Manila. The Marion has arrived at Mare Island. The Adams has arrived at Tacoma and the Michigan at Kenosha.

Fatal Duel in Illinois.

Chicago, May 30.—In a crowd at the railway station at Harvey Frank Cameron and Thomas O'Neill, formerly business partners, fought a pistol duel, with the result that Cameron was mortally wounded. The shooting was the result of a feud of months' duration which arose over an alleged diamond swindle. Their legal difficulties had brought them to the suburbs of Harvey, and at the station the quarrel was renewed. O'Neill was arrested.

Full River Mills Collision.

Fall River, Mass., May 30.—The stockholders of the Harrington and Parker mills have voted to combine and make the capital stock $1,000,000 instead of $800,000, as it is in each case now. There was no opposition. The Harringtons meeting went through with the shares against the proposition to combine and 5,750 in favor of it. In the case of the Parker the vote was 6,101 shares in favor, and this was a unanimous vote.

Griscom Gains a Victory.

Constantinople, May 30.—After a day of a month Lloyd C. Griscom, United States charge d'affaires, has obtained permission for the importation of an important consignment of gold mining machinery and other articles in the United States by a merchant of Istanbul. It is probable the difficulty was due to the action of the native millers, who are fearful of the competition of a mill equipped on American principles.

DE GALLIFFET RESIGNS.

Man Who Saved France Leaves the Cabinet.

Paris, May 30.—General de Marquis de Galliffet, minister of war, has resigned. His successor is General Andre.

For a month his doctor had urged General de Galliffet to resign, and a letter announcing his decision was read at the cabinet council yesterday morning.

General Andre is 62 years old. He is an excellent type of the well educated French soldier, distinguished by judicious vigor and cool energy as well as intellectual quality. While commander of the Polytechnic school from December 1891, to May, 1899, he showed himself a skillful as well as an energetic administrator.

GENERAL GALLIFFET.

He has strenuously opposed the introduction of politics into the army and it is therefore certain that he will co-operate with the cabinet to make France peaceful.

It was he who some months ago first forbade the entry into the barracks of his division of newspapers that attacked the army. General de Galliffet, encouraged by his initiative, extended the order to all the garrisons in France.

W. A. Cobb of Lockport Dead.

Lockport, N. Y., May 30.—Willard A. Cobb, editor of The Journal of this city and president of the state civil service commission, died suddenly yesterday afternoon in his apartments at the Stevens hotel. For some weeks he had been in poor health, but his condition was not regarded as serious. He was able to be on the street in the morning. Mr. Cobb was the son of Dr. Cobb of Rome, N. Y. He was born in this city in 1845. He graduated in 1864 from Hamilton college, and his first newspaper connection was with the Chicago Post as a reporter. Later he became associate editor of the Hudson (Wis.) Advocate, afterward city editor of the Utica Herald and then associate editor of the Dunkirk Journal. In 1880 he came to Lockport as associate editor of The Journal and later bought a half interest in the business, becoming editor of the paper. Mr. Cobb traveled extensively in Europe during 1879, writing during his journeyings for American publications. He was appointed to the board of state regents in 1886.

The White Murder Case.

Philadelphia, May 30.—Amos Stirling, the negro who was arrested at Trenton charged with being implicated in the murder of Professor Roy Wilson White, the young law instructor of the University of Pennsylvania, who was killed by highwaymen on the night of May 19, was last night accused by two of his negro companions with having struck the blows which resulted in Professor White's death. Charles Perry, who was arrested Monday and to whom the possession of Professor White's watch was traced, and Henry Ivory, arrested last week, have both admitted their presence when the attack was made on Professor White, and both declared that Stirling struck the fatal blows.

McCoy Whips Tommy Ryan.

Chicago, May 30.—"Kid" McCoy was given a decision over Syracuse Tommy Ryan last night at the end of one of the prettiest six round fights ever seen here. But over the decision and what Referee Malachy Hogan claims was a misapprehension a free for all fight resulted, and but for the presence of a large force of police who hustled the men out of the ring and cleared the hall in a hurry it is probable that the McCoy-Ryan fight would not have been the most interesting thing on the evening's programme.

Porter For Vice President.

Paris, May 30.—A significant incident apropos of the reports of General Porter's candidacy for vice president occurred at the dinner given by the University club last night. Mr. Clarke R. Carr, former minister to Denmark, colonized ambassador Porter and said that his name would be presented at Philadelphia and that his nomination was assured. General Porter, who presided, said nothing. He neither disclaimed nor avowed an ambition to become President McKinley's running mate.

House Antitrust Programme.

Washington, May 30.—The rules committee of the house has arranged a programme by which the constitutional amendment increasing the power of congress to deal with trusts will be debated today and tomorrow, with a final vote at 5 p. m. tomorrow. The discussion of the antitrust bill, by which the present powers of congress are directed against trusts, will follow on Friday, with a vote at 1 p. m. on that day.

Guard the Ankles.

A New York doctor noted for his skill in treating women says that to every woman who dies of cold in the hand and feet, he says that nine out of ten could have caught through the ankles, and that if the ankles were always kept warm and well protected there would be a great decrease in stillbirth and sneezing. Women must have found this out, because they are wearing garters this winter more than they did before.

AT GATE OF GOLD CITY.

Roberts Makes Triumphant Entry Today.

Mines Believed to Be Safe.

Intense Anxiety Felt in London About Great Properties Whose Destruction Has Been Threatened. Whereabouts of Boers Taken An.

London, May 30.—British troops have virtually if not actually occupied Johannesburg. This announcement, welcome despite its being generally expected, was made by Lord Salisbury late this evening at a banquet of the City of London Conservative association and was received with a great display of enthusiasm.

Precisely to this announcement word had been received from Lord Roberts, dated half past 6 o'clock last evening, stating that with his main army he had reached Germiston, which is practically a suburb of Johannesburg. His troops had not then entered the town, but the commander in chief intended to summon the commandant to surrender at daybreak. If, as he expected, no opposition was offered, he would enter Johannesburg at noon today at the head of his army.

Lord Roberts reported at this time that apparently the mines had not been blown up, yet until the city of gold was actually in British hands it was felt there would be no safety for the immense properties there as much serious damage might be done in a single night.

There is no doubt that the British leader, with his swiftly moving army, has quite surprised and outwitted his mobile enemy, who did not expect him at Germiston, so the official dispatch naively says, for another 24 hours. Consequently they had not taken the precaution to remove the rolling stock to Pretoria. As a result it has fallen into Lord Roberts' hands.

By seizing this junction at Germiston the British forces have secured control of not only the line running southeast into Natal, but also the branch line west through Johannesburg to Klerksdorp.

It is thought here that whatever heavy guns the Boers may have at Laingsnek and Potchefstroom are now doomed to inevitable capture, for the British army is astride of the railway at the chief strategic point. The most interesting question now is whether the Boers have retired northward through Johannesburg along the road to Pretoria or have retreated westward toward Krugersdorp.

BOERS' DEATHKNELL.

Not a Shred of Independence For Them, Says Salisbury.

London, May 30.—Lord Salisbury, who was entertained at dinner last evening by the City of London Conservative association, made an important announcement regarding the government's South African policy.

"The 'stop the war' party have used my name," said the premier, "in support of their ideas by stating that I promised there should be no annexation of territory, no annexation of goldfields. I never meant to give a pledge."

"I state a simple historical fact. We were forced of going to war for lost of gold and territory. We went to war to abate oppression of the queen's subjects in the Transvaal and because our remonstrances were met by an insulting ultimatum, to which if the queen's government had submitted her power not only in South Africa, but over our colonies and dependencies, would have been at an end. We were forced into war by the action of our opponents."

"To say that because we repudiated the greed of territory we therefore bound ourselves never to annex any territory is a most ridiculous misconstruction. I dwell on this point because this matter of annexation is about to become a burning question."

"We have made a tremendous sacrifice of blood and treasure in this conflict, and the very certainty of preventing a recurrence of this fearful war is to insure that never again shall such vast accumulations of armaments occur and that not a shred of the former independence of the republics shall remain."

"We are not yet at the end of the war, but I shall venture to lay it down as a primary condition of any future settlement that preparations will be taken of such a character that such a war will never occur again. It will also be our duty to protect those native races who have been so sorely afflicted and at the same time so to conduct our policy that so far as possible there shall be a reconciliation and that every one shall be a happy member of the British empire."

$2,000,000 to a University.

St. Louis, May 30.—Samuel Cupples and Robert S. Brookings of the Cupples Woodward company have presented to Washington university here 15,000 shares of stock, each worth $100, in apples property. Seventh and Spruce streets, better known as Cupples station, or a total of 30,000 shares valued at $3,000,000, the ostensible consideration being $5, the only provision being that 12 free scholarships shall be maintained in the manual training school. This makes the total gift of Mr. Brookings to the university $2,000,000 and of Mr. Cupples $1,750,000 and the total endowment of the university about $5,000,000.

To Attach Neely's Property.

Indianapolis, May 30.—United States District Judge Wiley Wishard, on behalf of the government, has brought suit against Charles F. W. Neely to attach all the property belonging to the latter that may be found in this state. The suit was brought under orders from Attorney General Griggs. It is the intention of the government to levy upon the Neely Printing company's plant at Muncie, and Deputy Marshal John Foley left for Muncie this morning to serve the writ of attachment.

$1,200,000 in Gold Stolen.

Chicago, May 30.—Chief of Police Kipley has been notified of the theft of 38 bars of bullion, weighing 200 pounds each, of gold, worth about $1,200,000, and silver valued at about $123,000. The bullion is supposed to be in possession of the burglars in the city. The bars were stolen from a car on the Chicago Terminal Transfer Railroad company's tracks several days ago.

Fatal Accident in Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, May 30.—One man was killed outright, two were fatally hurt and five others badly injured last night by the collapse of a traveling crane at the plant of the Totten & Hegg Iron and Steel Foundry company.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS.

House Strikes Out Armor Plate Amendment to Naval Bill.

Washington, May 30.—The house yesterday, by a vote of 107 to 121, rejected the senate amendment to the naval appropriation bill relating to armor plate and adopted a modification reading as follows:

"That the secretary of the navy is hereby authorized to procure by contract armor of the best quality for any or all vessels above referred to, provided such contracts can be made at a price which in his judgment is reasonable and equitable, but in case he is unable to make contracts for armor under the above conditions he is hereby authorized in his discretion to procure a site and erect thereon a factory for the manufacture of armor plate, and the sum of $4,000,000 is hereby appropriated toward the erection of said factory."

The conference report on the postoffice appropriation bill, according to all items except the senate amendment appropriating $225,000 for pneumatic tube service, was adopted, and the house then concurred in the excepted amendment. The opponents of the extended service in the house reconciled their concurrence in this action upon the ground that the $225,000 appropriated by the senate simply carried out the existing contract. The bill now goes to the president.

A few minutes before adjournment last evening the senate added to the sundry civil appropriation bill an amendment appropriating $700,000 for the Louisiana Purchase exposition to be held in St. Louis in 1903, on condition that $10,000,000 in addition be realized by the exposition authorities. The amendment was offered by Mr. Cockrell of Missouri and was adopted without debate and without dissent.

Mr. Bacon of Georgia addressed the senate at length on the Teller resolution expressing sympathy for the Boers, after which the resolution was referred to the committee on foreign relations by a vote of 40 to 20.

Official Expenses in Cuba.

Washington, May 30.—The war department has submitted to congress another mass of information in answer to inquiries as to the amount and character of allowances made for salaries and expenses of army officers in Cuba. The department has already supplied this information relative to the officers in Porto Rico. With the exception of the four allowances made to the military governor, the collector of customs, the treasurer and the auditor, stated in detail in the answer previously returned by the department, the allowances exhibited in the statement transmitted yesterday are for small amounts, the largest being an allowance of $180 to Major Russell Harrison for traveling expenses. There were altogether 70 items of allowance treated in this statement which covers the first six months of last year. Leaving out the allowances to the four superior officials already mentioned, the total of the remainder is slightly over $2,000. The figures for the last half of the year 1899 have been already supplied to congress, and adding the totals for the two halves it appears that the allowances paid for out of Cuban funds were $37,750, made up of salaries, $15,240; quarters, $19,949; transportation and subsistence, $1,892; and miscellaneous, $658.

Dewey to Make Another Tour.

Washington, May 30.—Admiral Dewey has arranged to leave Washington on June 5 for a trip that will carry him as far as Grand Rapids, Mich. It is a purely social trip in response to invitations issued some months ago by the citizens of three western cities which Admiral Dewey had accepted before the announcement of his candidacy for the presidency. The trip has no political significance. The party will reach Columbus, O., on the 6th and remain there through the 7th. On the 8th they will go to Detroit, spending the 9th and 10th in that city, and will then proceed to Grand Rapids, where they will be received by the citizens on the 11th and 12th. The return to Washington probably will be made on June 13.

Strike in Baltimore.

Baltimore, May 30.—The forces of striking electrical workers were re-enforced last night by 150 linemen, employees of the local telephone companies. The latter ask for $3 per day of nine hours. A conference between a committee of striking electric light workers and the officials of the United Railways and Electric company was held yesterday, but the result cannot be ascertained. Company officials refuse to talk upon the subject, while the strikers claim that the meeting was fairly satisfactory to them. Little progress at trimming the air lights was made yesterday, and the city was again in darkness last night except for the Velsbach lamps erected by the city.

Promotions in Volunteer Army.

Washington, May 30.—Battalion Sergeant Major Henry R. Cassey, thirty-ninth volunteer infantry, has been appointed second lieutenant in that regiment; First Sergeants E. S. Luthi, Troop C, and George Southerland, Troop M, Eleventh volunteer cavalry, have been appointed in that regiment, and First Sergeant Thomas W. Gunn, Company K, Thirty-seventh infantry, has been appointed a second lieutenant in that regiment. All these officers are serving in the Philippines.

Quarantine in San Francisco.

San Francisco, May 30.—In accordance with the power vested in it by the board of supervisors of this city the board of health has quarantined Chinatown, and that section of the city is now surrounded by a cordon of police who refuse to allow any one to pass in or out of the district unless he is provided with a permit. The quarantine order also includes the street cars, which are not allowed to pass through the district.

American Suicide in Bremen.

Berlin, May 30.—Mr. Louis Berger, a German-American, has committed suicide at Bremen by drowning. One hundred and eighty dollars in money and a number of valuables were found upon the body. In his pocket was a card containing the address of his wife and son in New York.

The Benham Trial.

Canandaigua, N. Y., May 30.—At the evening session of the Benham trial two more jurors were secured, after the examination of eight additional talesmen. The 11 men on the panel are composed of seven farmers, one maltster, one blacksmith and one mason.

THURSDAY, MAY 31, 1900.

Chicago's anti-noise movement is fairly booming. It may yet be compelled to suppress itself in order to be consistent.

In 1896 the republican war cry was "Open the Mills." but this year it will be "Keep Them Open." And it has a winning sound.

If General Jubal Early were alive he would never uphold the contention that Sheridan's Shenandoah Valley campaign was valueless.

There is some likelihood that we may yet witness the unique spectacle of Mr. Croker and Mr. Cockran riding side by side on the Bryan band wagon.

Ex-Senator Gorman, of Maryland, is said to have given up the fight against Bryan. The latter's reconcentrated policy is gradually drawing the wanderers into the sheep pen.

At this distance it looks as though the negroes of Virginia, without knowing exactly what they were doing, had voted for their own disfranchisement. Progress must be moving backward in the old dominion.

Senator Blackburn's demand for the repeal of the Goebel law makes the Kentucky democrats gasp. If they don't read him out of the party it will be only because they fear he might take Jack Chinn along with him.

One unfortunate feature of the rioting in St. Louis is the fact that the killed and wounded are all outsiders who had nothing to do with the affair. The innocent suffer, the guilty ones being at the wrong end of the line.

For praying that lightning might strike a certain brewery which afterward was struck, a Pennsylvania minister is now confronted with a suit for damages. But is he the proper one to sue, except as an accessory before the fact?

Now that King Richard has declared for Bryan, the Tammanyites will immediately begin to fall over one another in a strictly spontaneous effort to instruct the Empire state delegates for the Nebraska claimant. The peculiar brand of democratic harmony thus instituted bears the trade mark, "Made in England."

Gold seekers who may be tempted by the fabulous richness of the Cape Nome territory should think twice before starting for that cheerless region. Reports just received from there show that it is no place for poor men. The desirable claims have nearly all been taken, food and fuel command exorbitant prices, and the 10,000 fortune hunters now en route to the distant territory are doomed to disappointment and suffering. There is ground for the suspicion that the extraordinary rush of prospectors to Cape Nome is due to the alluring and reckless advertising of the district which is put out by certain enterprising shipping companies on the Pacific coast.

According to the "Criterion," "A Romance by the late author of 'Looking Backward' has just been discovered. Twenty years ago, at the request of a friend who ran a village paper in the Berkshires, Mr. Bellamy wrote a serial called 'The Duke of Stockbridge,' an historical romance, based upon Shay's rebellion. This mutiny of the poor debtor farmers of Massachusetts, oppressed by the money lending class, gave a humanitarian theme which thoroughly inspired the author. Immediately afterward, while in this spirit, without waiting to put this story into book covers, he began 'Looking Backward.' So it was that 'The Duke of Stockbridge' lay practically forgotten, although Mr. Bellamy more than once began to prepare it for final publication. When brought to light it was found to be worthy of the author's great reputation. A New York house is about to publish it."

Such The Reported Condition Of Pretoria.

British To Be Received Without Resistance.

But—Mr. Fischer Says Something Quite Different.

LONDON, Thursday, May 31, 2:40 A. M.—The Daily Mail publishes the following despatch from the earl of Rothesay, at Pretoria, who was taken prisoner but later released, it seems, as a civilian. It is dated Wednesday, May 30th, 10:40 A. M.: "Pretoria will be occupied by the British within two hours, with no resistance. The president has gone to Waterval Boven. Burghomaster Sousea has been authorized to receive the British. A committee of citizens has been deputed to preserve life and property during the inter-regnum. Everything is quiet here, but all are waiting breathlessly for the arrival of the British. In order to prevent possible rioting and bloodshed among the British prisoners at Waterval, United States Consul Hay and Mr. Beighan Wood insisted upon the release, on parole, of twenty British officers, to go to the men. Their action cannot be too highly praised. I was commissioned to accompany them. All is quiet in Pretoria just now."

Dictating Terms Of Surrender.

PRETORIA, May 30.—British officers are now at Johannesburg, dictating terms of surrender. The advance guard of the British army is now half way between Johannesburg and Pretoria. President Kruger has gone to Waterval Boven.

Rumor Not Confirmed.

LONDON, May 30.—The war officer announces that it has received no news to confirm the rumor published in Berlin, to the effect that Johannesburg has been blown up.

Determined To Get Liberty.

BOSTON, May 30.—"Ever if our country is taken by the British and all our leaders are imprisoned, the war will cease only for awhile and will be renewed from time to time, if need be, until our liberty has been attained," was the dramatic utterance of Mr. Fischer, one of the Boer envoys who arrived here today, when he was shown the Associated Press despatch regarding the impending surrender of Pretoria.

TWO CYCLISTS KILLED.

WATTHAM, MASS., May 30.—During the bicycle race here this afternoon, L. E. Miles of Lynn, and William S. Stafford of Cambridge, who were riding a tandem, were shoved off the track and over the embankment. Miles collided head first with an electric light pole, while Stafford was thrown bodily through a picket fence. The skulls of both were fractured, and both died this evening.

Soldiers Without Passes Get Into Trouble And Into Guard House.

NAVAL STATION.
CAVITE, PHILIPPINE ISLANDS,
April 8, 1900

I ran across the San Francisco Call of recent date and it brought me the first information of the death of Eddie Parsley on the hospital transport Mis-souri on Jan. 10. There were twenty-seven deaths en route and it certainly could be called the ship of death, and though the government made the condition of the hundreds of the sick soldiers as comfortable as possible, there were liable to be many deaths among them, considering that most of them had been ill in the hospitals for several months.

I have been across the yard today to the naval hospital to visit one of the clerks from New York who rooms in the same house that I do. There were about forty patients at the hospital, none very ill and all well cared for. The pharmacist is John Cowan; he was in Manchester at one time and spoke pleasantly of many of the residents there during his day. He is a pleasant man to meet, and with his corps of attendants is doing work creditable to himself and to the government.

Was at Manila Sunday, but failed to see Dr. Burns as he had gone back to his regiment somewhere up the coast. C. Ed. Tilton, son of ex Mayor Tilton of Portsmouth, and myself, dined with Sergt. Wilcomb at the signal corps headquarters. The latter was having a lay off after several months of "hiking," but was getting tired of idleness and was anxious to get orders which sooner or later were sure to come.

Wilcomb's work generally now is to go through the country in charge of a detail of men putting up telegraph wires, and has a guard of twelve or more men, and in several sections it is still dangerous on account of the ladrones who are bent on robbery and murder. Sometimes the wire and poles are cut are several companies garrisoned there, and the officers have had in their employ a Chinaman, formerly at work for the insurgents. He has been a valuable scout and has led our army to several rebel strongholds.

One day last week while my friend was there, the Chinaman was stabbed to his death right in the market place, within one hundred yards of officers' headquarters and provo marshal's office with many of the guard right in that locality, yet the murderer escaped. In that town the natives are surly, and as yet there are many of the prominent citizens who are still absent from their residences. Before the war Baranazas had a population of thirty thousand, and today, not counting the troops, there is less than ten thousand.

"Murder will out." Impurities in the blood will be sure to show themselves unless expelled by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

INJURY WAS FATAL.

Mrs. Leonard Junkins of York died at her home in that town on Wednesday morning, May 30th, the result of being kicked in the wrist by a horse in Kittery one day last week. The wound had practically healed, when tetanus developed and death speedily resulted. Mrs. Junkins was aged about fifty-six years. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Albert Travers of South Framingham, Mass., Mrs. William H. Noyes, of Lynn, Mass., and Mrs. Charles E. Farewell of Kittery, and one son.

She was a woman of Christian character and was held in the highest regard in Kittery and York. Her sudden death was a great shock to the community. Mrs. Junkins was engaged in fixing the harness on the horse when the animal made a kick for her head and in shielding herself she received a severe cut on the wrist. The wound was at once dressed by Dr. Shapleigh, but it did not prevent the appearance of the dread disease.

ELECTRIC CAR DERAILED.

Car No 23 on the Portsmouth electric railroad was derailed in front of the South school house in Rye at about eleven o'clock, on Wednesday morning, May 30th, and was not gotten on the track again until the afternoon. No cars went beyond that point until the track was cleared.

down, but woe to the native who lives near by the scene of the trouble if he does not come to camp and report it. The orders are to burn the shacks, and one match does the whole business. Notwithstanding this harsh punishment the wires are cut faster than they can be repaired.

About half of the rum shops in Cavite, including the two largest ones, have been closed, and now the marine canteen has similar orders for selling beer to the marines by the bottle.

In the guard house, which we have to pass by several times a day, are eight landrones. Sunday night they had for company about thirty of the army boys from Manila and Cavite Viego, who were over here on a lark and had neglected to get liberty passes. Many of the soldiers are taking advantage of the quiet times and are going around this section visiting friends in other regiments, but it saves them lots of trouble if they get permission from their commanding officers. Many of them have had a hard time of it, and now the real warfare seems to be closed, they are in for a good time.

I have a friend who came out here soon after Dewey did, not as a soldier, but to try to make an American dollar double itself. This past week he has been down to Baranazas, one hundred miles directly south on the coast. There

MORE DEAD FILIPINOS.

Over Two Hundred Killed In Recent Fights.

ONE AMERICAN OFFICER SLAIN.

Lieutenant Evans of Forty-third Infantry Victim of Insurrection—Village of Pavia, Rebel Rendezvous, Burned—Many Rifles Captured.

Manila, May 30.—Major Henry T. Allen of the Forty-third Infantry, while scouting from Catibogan, island of Samar, May 8, drove a party of insurgents from the valleys. Four Americans were killed, including Lieutenant W. H. Evans, who was killed while gallantly leading a charge against the insurgents. Eleven of the enemy were killed and four wounded.

The town of Catemaran, island of Samar, was attacked at midnight April 20 by 1,000 rebels, who intruded themselves near the town over night. Captain John Cooke of the Forty-third regiment fought the Filipinos for six hours and afterward killed 150 of the enemy. One American was killed and one was wounded.

The hamlet of Pavia, in the province of Laguna, island of Luzon, the headquarters of General Cailles, was surrounded May 26 by three detachments of the Forty-second regiment. Thirty-seventh regiment and Eleventh cavalry. Only a few of the enemy were encountered. Cailles having departed the day before, Pavia, which was manifestly a rebel rendezvous, was burned to the ground.

Captain Nordon's scouts and two companies of the Eighteenth regiment, while scouting May 12 in western Panay, surprised a number of the enemy near Valderama and killed 35 of them. There were no casualties among the Americans, but some of them suffered from sunstroke.

The official reports announce scouting and small engagements in Panay and Cebu islands and Tayabas, Laguna, Zambales, Benguet and Pangasinan provinces, resulting in 14 of the enemy being killed and many wounded. The Americans also captured 60 rifles, a Nordenfeldt gun and supplies of ammunition and destroyed a powder factory.

A rebel major who surrendered at Isum last week has been persuading others to follow his example. Yesterday he effected the surrender of 40 men with 55 rifles at Tarlac and hopes to influence more of his countrymen to do the same.

Taft Commutation In Hongkong.

Hongkong, May 30.—The Taft Philippines commission is paying official visits here. The commission held yesterday an extended conference and took the testimony of the Cortes family regarding a possible solution of the troubles in the Philippines. The commission will leave for Manila on Friday. Judge Taft will not take over the duties of governor general until Sept. 1, thus giving the army a free hand to work out the scheme of campaign approved in Washington.

The Census.

Washington, May 30.—After 15 months of preparation the preliminary work in connection with taking the twelfth census is practically over. The actual field work commencing on the first day of June. The work incident to the commencement of the enumeration proper has been of considerable magnitude. Nearly 300 supervisors have been selected, 52,000 enumerators, something over 2,000 special agents, a clerical force is now at work numbering over 1,000, and examinations are in force that will provide some 2,200 more. Over 15,000,000 of schedules have been prepared and sent to the different parts of the United States for use in taking the enumeration and acquiring other facts in connection with the manufacturing and agricultural inquiries.

Governor Taylor Will Run Again.

Martinsville, Ind., May 30.—W. S. Taylor, recent claimant for the governorship of Kentucky, has announced that he will make the race again this fall on an anti-Goblet election law platform. The announcement was made at the end of a four hours' conference attended by Mr. Taylor, Charles Frazier, former secretary of state of Kentucky; A. D. James, United States marshal for the Fifth district of Kentucky, and others. Mr. Taylor will remain in Indiana until he has recuperated. He said yesterday: "I will not seek nor decline the Republican nomination for governor of Kentucky. The mandate of the liberty loving people of Kentucky should be obeyed."

Well Known Railroad Man Dead.

CABMEN AS LINGUISTS.

An Innovation That Got One London Jehu Into Trouble.

"On one of the Boulevard cabs," writes the Paris correspondent of the London Mail, "may be observed the legend so familiar in the shops in the Vendome quarter of 'English spoken.' This particular cab is in modest in his pretensions, as he speaks also Italian and German, not to mention the terrible 'argot' which every self-respecting cabby prefers to academic French. Unfortunately English spoken may be translated generally by 'prices doubled.'"

Anxious to learn whether London cabmen were as cultured, a representative of The Mail questioned a few of them.

One cabby smiled when he read the news of his Paris confrere and chuckled when he came to the words "prices doubled." "That would be a good thing," he said, "but it wouldn't be allowed here. Oh, yes, I know some chaps that can speak French and German and Italian, too, that hasn't always been cabmen, you know. Some of them have some fun understanding things they're not meant to when people inside think they're quite safe in talking French."

"But wouldn't it pay them to put a notice on their cabs that they speak French?"

"No, I don't think so. People that are any class have an interpreter, or they get things arranged by their hotel servants. Besides it ain't allowed to put any advertisement on a cab."

But a second jovial faced Jehu gave a different opinion.

"We ain't allowed to have advertisements, but we can 'ave a notice on the cab. I mind a man I knew—we called 'im Whistler—why? 'Cos he was always whistling, of course—he could speak French, and he put a brass plate on the back of his cab, 'Lea coacher'—that means the cabman—'parlez vous francais'—I think that's it. Anyway, it meant 'the cabman speaks French.' We used to chaff him a bit, but 'e got plenty of fares. Only one day 'e were away, and another chap got his cab, not knowing about this notice. Well, some French people spoke to 'im, and 'e thought they were 'aving him, so there was a row, and the copper came up. However, a gent, passing, 'e says, 'Why, cabby, that notice means the cabman speaks French.' Then 'e felt a bit small."

"I know there are fellows that speak French and German, too—if you know Latin, I've heard you can easily speak French and German. Some went over to Paris with the English cabs, and I suppose poked it up there. I can speak a bit myself—I know 'for on purlo' and 'sil-verpays, maddemoiselle.' So I can generally understand foreigners, and besides they mostly know a little English. So I don't think we're likely to start those notices."

HENRY'S WATCHFUL SPOUSE.

Whether Banks Looked In Bill's Greeting or Not, He's Safe.

He was young, but that wasn't his fault. He was married—that was. But when one came to view the rosy cheeks, from which blossomed forth the very essence of health, the trusting eyes, the robust and rustic but not ungraceful form of her who clung with trusting confidence to him, one could not help but feel that his excuse was a good one. Every inch of his 6 feet of sturdy manhood bespoke a familiar acquaintance with plows, cows and corn, and his appearance was suggestive of peaches and bonhomie for they, these two happy mortals—for they were happy and didn't care who knew it—stood at twenty-third street and Sixth avenue and watched "the passing show." Suddenly he grabbed her by the wrist and, pointing across the street, ejaculated, "Say, Liz, hang in there ain't Bill Durand coming this way?"

"Pshaw! Now, Henry," admonished she, "that ain't Bill 'tall. If he speaks to ye, don't ye dare answer, fer if ye do ye'll get bunked, sure."

It evidently was Bill Durand, for, extending his hand, he said in a good, strong, hearty voice: "Why, hello, Henry! How's every one at home?" "Henry" spoke never a word, but gazed longingly at the outstretched hand and then fearfully at the sharer of his joys and sorrows. Then he exploded, "Say, Bill, I know it's you, but Liz here thinks it's some kind o' bunko game been worked, and I darsent say a word to you." Bill looked astonished, then amused and continued his way up Sixth avenue. Henry and Liz had some earnest conversation, during which Liz was overheard to remark that she "didn't know how he got along before she married him."—New York Mail and Express.

Selling Goldfishes.

In a store where home aquarium supplies are sold there are, besides the usual varied assortment of glass globes, a number of larger tanks of various shapes and sizes in which stock is kept for sale. The tanks themselves are, of course, sold if there is a demand for them.

Lying across the corner of the largest of these tanks is a little net, the hoop no more than 5 or 6 inches in diameter and the handle about a foot long. "This is to scoop up the goldfishes when they are sold. When a new outfit is sold complete, the fishes are delivered in the globe or tank. It often happens, however, that the person already owning a globe wants to replace fish that have been lost or to add to his stock, and he goes to the store where such things are sold and buys one or more goldfishes, just as he would buy any merchandise, except that instead of sitting down at a counter to make his selections he bends over a tank and indicates among the fishes swimming about the ones he wants. As he makes his selections the dealer scoops them out with the little net, and as likely as not the purchaser carries the fish he has bought—a single fish or half a dozen, or whatever the number may be—right away with him in a tin pail.

Little goldfish of the commoner kinds can be bought for a few cents apiece. Some of the rarer varieties cost dollars.—New York Sun.

A Qualified Misfortune.

To illustrate the readiness of some unscrupulous people to turn even their calamities to a dishonest advantage, the story is told that a certain small farmer complained to a relative that his cow was sick. "And you have to buy milk?" asked the relative.

"Land, yes!"

"How much d'you have to pay?"

"Mile Twelvesbury lets us have some of hers for 5 cents a quart."

"Well, what d'you do with your milk while the cow's sick?"

"Oh, we sell it to the city milkman."

"Get 5 cents a quart from him?"

"Sakes, no! He gives 6!"—Youth's Companion.

Quite Unnecessary.

"I think," said the young man, "that if you would give me a chance I could do the stage."

"Oh," replied the manager, "there's no excuse for that expense! The stage is high enough, and everything would be all right if we could only get the ladies to remove their hats."—Washington Star.

VANDERBILT'S RIDE.

HIS HORSE FRIGHTENED BY THE GIRL WHO BECAME HIS WIFE.

How the Commodore's Son Met Miss Kissan—He Proposed at a Picnic—Inscription Which William H. Cut Into a Tree to See How It Would Look.

It must have been more than 60 years ago at least that a young man mounted his bay horse early one evening for a gallop through the streets of Albany. The horse was in the fettle, and the ride was begun with a dash that attracted the attention of all beholders.

Some who hastened to get out of the way predicted disaster if the pace was continued, but the rider smiled at their looks of apprehension as he passed, settled himself a little more firmly in the saddle and increased the speed. He knew a few things about horsemanship, and he knew, and the notion that he could meet with an accident never entered his head.

As he rode the moon rose, creating high lights here and there that contrasted strongly with the darkening shadows. Eventually, perhaps, the young man's sense of delight in rapid motion began to give way to appreciation of the evening's beauties. At all events he slackened the reins a bit as the horse swung round a corner into a side street.

Just ahead in the moonlight he saw a girl upon a crosswalk. At the sudden sound of hoofs she stepped quickly to the shaded footpath. There was a flutter of white drapery, and the horse started violently. A moment later the young rider lay prone upon the ground, his head and himself apparently suffering severely from the sudden contact of his head against a jagged pile of stones.

The girl screamed, but in spite of her fright she hastened to the fallen horseman's aid. She had hardly reached him when he rose nimbly, brushed the dirt from his clothes and stood smiling before her.

"Are you—are you badly hurt?" asked the girl.

"Why, no; not at all. It was awkward in me to take such a tumble from my horse," said the young man. "I hope I didn't give you too much of a start, though, Miss—Miss—"

"Miss Kissan," said the girl, demurely finishing his sentence, while her face turned rosy red in the moonlight.

As the young man gazed upon her pretty features he suddenly grew faint.

"I—I don't know but I am a bit more shaken up than I thought I was," he stammered, "but—I'll be all right in a moment."

"Do hope it is not serious," said the girl, again blushing vividly. "It was all my fault, too. My horse is in the next house, and I am sure it would be best for you to go in and rest a little, Mr.—Mr.—"

"Vanderbilt," responded the youth, in turn finishing an interrogatory sentence: "William H. Vanderbilt—and possibly it would be well for me to accept your invitation."

So the young man entered the home of the Rev. Mr. Kissan, at that time a well known Lutheran clergyman of the state capital. The minister received his guest hospitably, of course, when the accident was explained, and the girl's mother bustled about to make some simple applications to the horseman's hurts. While his bruises were being attended to young Vanderbilt and the minister engaged in conversation on some topic of the day, in which the mother and the daughter joined, and all forgotful of his horse, the unexpected guest remained the evening through. When at last he rose himself away, he thought he had never been so entertained more pleasantly in his life.

Of course he was invited to call again, and of course he accepted the invitation. In fact his calls at the modest parsonage were exceedingly frequent from that time on, and it was not many weeks before he decided sooner or later to ask a particularly important question of the girl who had frightened his horse, and then another of her father.

It was not until the following July, however, that he was able to muster up enough courage to put these interrogations.

He may not have been a worker in that field before he met Miss Kissan, but it is of record that the following July he acted as superintendent of the Sunday school connected with her father's church, and that the entire school went somewhere on a picnic in that month.

Miss Kissan was a teacher, and both the young folk were naturally kept pretty busy all day long.

But some time before the close of the day they found it possible to take a quiet stroll together afar in the grove where the picnic was held. When they had got away from the others, young Vanderbilt stammered out his story and asked his question. After the story had been listened to and the question answered in the way he wished he took from his pocket a keen blade penknife and with it carved an inscription in the smooth bark of a maple tree. This inscription read: "Mr. and Mrs. William H. Vanderbilt."

He had cut it just to see how it would look, and its appearance was so gratifying to both the young folk that they remained to gaze upon it long enough to verify the other picnicers about their absence and cause the sending of messengers to find them.

The question that yet had to be put to the clergyman, too, was answered as the young man desired, though perhaps with some hesitancy. Possibly this was in part because of the young man's rather slender financial prospects, for, though his father, the commodore, was already quite well to do, William H. had his own way to make in the world and was known to be somewhat in disfavor at home.

As all the world knows, the young bridegroom's subsequent career was such that the bride's father had no cause to regret the match because his daughter had married a poor man, for he became the richest man of his time. But the pleasantest feature of it all was that, no matter how much William H. Vanderbilt may have merited some of the criticisms showered upon him, his long married life with the clergyman's daughter was not marred by a single discordant note.—New York Press.

THE HAIRDRESSER.

He Tells Stories of Human Vanity as Displayed in His Business.

The hairdresser was, as is not unusual with members of his profession, in a talkative mood. He was also inclined to meditate upon the vanities of humankind, which he has admirable opportunities to observe.

"If it wasn't for the fact that people think so much of their looks," he said, "we should lose three-quarters of our business and might as well shut up shop. It is wonderful to me, although you'd think I might be used to it by this time, to see how much trouble people will take about their hair. Just now the most fashionable shade of hair among women is a deep reddish brown or bronze. To get that color we bleach the hair to a blonde shade and then dye it to the proper bronze tone. It is a very slow job, for there must be five or six applications of the bleach, and then the dyeing takes a good deal of time. The whole process requires an entire day, and women will come in here and sit from morning until evening, never losing patience if they only think the result will be becoming and stylish."

"But that's only one of the ways in which they show their vanity about hair. There are lots of others. Why, I had a woman come in the other day who wanted all her own hair cut off, so that she could wear a wig. I looked at her in surprise. Her head was covered with thick, soft, naturally wavy hair of the finest quality, but what do you suppose was her objection to it? It was gray! I took out the hairpins, and the beautiful mass of hair fell in ripples far below her waist."

"But, madam, I said, 'It is a shame to cut off this hair. It is magnificent.'"

"Oh, no," she said, "I will not have gray hair. Cut it, I tell you. I want a brown wig."

"So, of course, I did as I was told. The hair dropped to the floor, and I was glad. I tell you, when I found she didn't want to take it away with her. For, you know, having some gray hair is the rarest and hardest to get in our business. Most of it comes from abroad. What do you suppose that woman's hair was worth to me? Thirty dollars—not a cent less. So she went away with a heavy brown wig, which was hideous compared with the hair she had just lost."

"It isn't fair, though, to lay all the vanity to the women. Lots of men come here at regular intervals to have their hair curled. Oh, it's true. There are plenty of men vain enough for that," he added as his auditor looked incredulous. "But I must admit I was dumfounded awhile ago when a man came to have his hair bleached. I made it a golden blond for him and then curled it, according to his orders. But I hope he won't come again. Men who have their hair curled haven't any too much sense, and a fellow who would have his hair bleached must be wrong in his head somewhere. I don't care to work for crazy folks," and the hairdresser put the finishing touch to the shampoo which he had been administering to his customer as he talked.—New York Tribune.

NAT GOODWIN'S DOG.

Many Remarkable Features That Prove the Canine to Have Been Unique.

"Did you ever hear about Nat Goodwin's big dog? No? Well, I don't vouch for the truth of this, but here's his history," said one of the men at the Chicago club. "You know Nat's magnetism could give points to a compass. Well, Nat was walking along a street one day when he passed a yard where there was a big St. Bernard chained to a doghouse. Nat looked at the dog and the dog looked at him and that settled it. The dog strained at his chain until it broke, then bounded to Nat, leaped and fawned on him and followed him home. Nat's valet gave the dog a scrubbing in a bathtub, and they had to make a jardiniere of the tub, because the waste pipe became jammed for any further use. The dog was named Jason. You've all heard of Jason and the Golden Fleece."

"The dog was intelligent, and Nat thought he would teach him some tricks. Nat knows a good many tricks himself and knows how to take one pretty well too. The dog was slow at first, but Nat said, 'I'll teach him in time.' So he planted the tub full of thyme and made the dog sleep in it, and do you know that dog got so he could tell thyme as well as a human being could. Why, he even got to chewing the clocks over of Nat's hository."

"His and was very sad, to hear Nat tell it. He was killed by an elephant in the menagerie. Nat and the dog were in the menagerie part of a circus one afternoon and while looking at the animals Nat missed Jason. Hearing a rumble in the center of the tent, where the elephants and ponies and camels make a show of themselves, Nat rushed over, and there was a keeper trying to drive Jason away from a big camel. The dog was chewing the camel's tail with all his masticating strength, and the poor camel was howling with pain. Then the elephant threw a trunk on the dog, and Nat was just in time to see him breathe his last. 'Poor Jason!' said Nat. 'He was only fulfilling his destiny. Once on a time he straitened at a Nat, and he died trying to swallow a camel.'"—Chicago Times-Herald.

NOT WHOLLY A COWARD.

A Railroad's Good Reason For Not Resisting Train Robbers.

"When I hear people boast what they would or wouldn't do under the persuasion of a six shooter," said an old passenger conductor, "I am always reminded of an experience of mine years ago on the Lion Mountain railroad."

"I was station agent at the time at a little town near Fairview and had been summoned to Little Rock on some business that has nothing to do with this story. I was in the last day coach, well up to the front, and in the next seat was an express messenger who had attracted a good deal of attention from the fact that he wore his hair long and had a pair of enormous revolvers stuck in his belt. The rest of the car was well filled with a mixed crowd, including perhaps a dozen women. At about 9 o'clock at night, while we were going over a very desolate part of the road, the train slowed down suddenly, and before we could inquire what was wrong the front door flew open and a masked man stepped inside with a sawed off shotgun at his shoulder. 'Sit still!' he yelled. 'I'll turn loose if any soul moves a finger.' As he spoke another masked man stepped around him with a cocked revolver in his hand and started down the aisle, looking the passengers as he went. When he came to the express messenger, he burst out laughing. 'You a scarecrow?' he said, 'what are you doing with them guns?' And he snatched one of the pistols out of his belt and hit him over the head with the butt. Then he took the other, made him hand over his watch and money and passed on. The messenger wiped the blood off his face and said nothing."

"After it was all over and the robbers had disappeared the messenger was a target for numerous sneering remarks. 'If I had made a break,' he said to me quietly, 'that fellow at the door would have blazed away with his sawed off gun and killed half the women folks in the car.' At the next stopping place he got off, and one of the women stuck her head out of the window and screamed 'Coward!'

"Two days later that same messenger walked up to a little cabin in the mountains, kicked in the door, shot two of the robbers dead in their tracks and captured three others, all single handed. I often wondered whether the woman who had called 'Coward!' heart of that incident."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

DOORKNOBS OF TODAY.

They Come In Hundreds of Shapes, and Most of Them Are Bronze.

The doorknob of 50 years ago was of brass. They came into use the mineral knob, which plenty of people of middle age will be able to recall. Mineral knobs were made of clays of different colors and sometimes of clays of different colors mixed, the knobs being baked with a glazed surface. A common and familiar form of the mineral knob was about the color of dark mahogany. In their day mineral knobs were highly esteemed, and some of them cost as much as $12 a dozen pairs. Now there are mineral knobs that can be bought for 75 cents a dozen pairs. Mineral knobs are still used.

After the mineral the bronze knob came into fashion, and after the bronze the wooden knob came into more or less extended use. The prevailing doorknob of today as used in cities is made of bronze. The first bronze knob put on the market cost $7 or $8 a pair. Many bronze knobs in one form and another are now produced very cheaply, but it might easily be that fine, handsome bronze knobs would cost from $2.50 to $3 a pair. More or less brass knobs are still made, but nowadays mostly in bronze designs.

Doorknobs are now made of iron, and they are still made in considerable variety of shapes and sizes of various kinds of wood. There are also made doorknobs of glass. These are now produced in greater variety than formerly. They are made in smooth and in cut glass, and some of them, simple in design as they may be, are beautiful. Glass doorknobs cost up to $4 a pair. But while doorknobs are made and sold in all these various materials, yet the prevailing knob in city use and the one that would be found in most of the city's dwellings would be one of bronze.

Among the hundreds of varieties in which doorknobs are made there may be found not only knobs in various conventional forms, but knobs made in conformity with architectural styles and historical periods. For all that, doorknobs are not infrequently made to order for single houses from designs furnished by the architect.—New York Sun.

Almost Insulted.

Amid the lace bargains in one of the large department stores the other day a shopper engrossed in thought set her little Japanese spool on the counter. One of the salesgirls, not seeing the little dog, threw a remnant of reduced lace over him and entirely submerged him. When the woman went to look for her pet, he was not to be found, but several shrill yelps accompanied by an upheaval of the lace brought his presence. He was quickly rescued from his predicament and the woman, showering kisses upon his moist, upturned nose, said, "Did they cover mamma's precious with cheap 50 cent lace?"

GIRL FELL TWO STORIES.

Mary Conners Was Terribly Injured at Her Work.

Was Washing a Window and Fell Backward, to the Ground.

The Girl is Employed at G. H. Joy's on Lafayette Avenue.

Mary Conners, a young servant girl employed at George H. Joy's, Lafayette avenue, was terribly injured while at work early this morning. Miss Conners was washing a window in the second story of the house and was sitting on the sill, facing the outer surface.

In pushing up the upper sash, she lost her balance and fell backward to the ground, a distance of about fifteen feet or more. She turned completely over before she struck the ground and doubled both arms under when she landed on the earth.

She was picked up by members of the family and taken into the house and was unconscious and thought to be dead.

Dr. A. J. Lanza was summoned to attend her and the physician found that she had sustained a fractured wrist and was badly shaken up and perhaps internally injured. She was made as comfortable as possible and will probably recover.

AUTOCYCLE HERE.

Swiftly Moving Machine Attracts Considerable Attention in this City.

An autocycle attracted considerable attention in the city on Memorial day and this morning. The machine was ridden by Harold H. Brown of Boston, who left Boston at nine o'clock Wednesday morning and arrived in this city at ten minutes of two in the afternoon.

After taking lunch here he went to York Beach over the old Post road in Kittery and opened the machine up on that highway in a manner that made the farmers rush from the potato fields.

The machine weighs two hundred and thirty two pounds and cost Mr. Brown $450. He used less than one gallon of gasoline on the trip from Boston to York beach and back to this city. Two gallons will carry the machine a hundred and fifty miles under ordinary conditions.

The machine has three wheels, the forward one being arranged the same as that on a bicycle. The tires are immense affairs and are said to be puncture proof.

TRYING TO ENTER VAULT.

Experts Have Not Succeeded in Opening Door of Bank Safe.

Although expert safe repairers from Boston have been at work since Saturday afternoon on the vault of the South Berwick National bank, which was blown open by burglars, they had not this noon succeeded in opening the inner door. They expect to have it open by night, however, so that the bank will be able to resume business Friday.

The experts say that even if the burglars had not been frightened away by the whistle, they could not have effected an entrance to the safe before sunrise with the most skillful use of explosives. The story first published that there was $100,000 in the safe is now denied. It is stated that practically all the securities except some few registered ones belonging to the savings bank, are kept in the vaults of the Portland Trust company, and that only sufficient money to carry on the ordinary business of a country bank is in the bank vault at any time.

ASLEEP ON THE TRACK.

Intoxicated Marine Came Near Meeting Death at Badger's Island.

An intoxicated marine came near being killed by an electric car on Badger's island on Wednesday evening and but for the quick work of a motorman would have been ground to pieces.

The marine evidently attempted to walk from the ferry landing to the bridge and collapsed on the track. The car due at the ferry at ten o'clock was rounding the curve just before it reached the up grade at this point when the motorman saw the man on the track, but a short distance ahead.

The up grade assisted in the work of stopping the car, but not before it was onto the fellow, yet the speed had been slackened enough so that it simply rolled him over and did him no injury.

AT ST. ASPINQUID PARK.

Extensive Improvements at This Popular Place This Season.

People who visited St. Aspinquid park at York beach last season and thought of one of the pleasant spots of all the New England pleasure resorts, would hardly know the park since the extensive additions have been made. The park has been entirely refitted the past spring and an immense amount of money has been expended in improvements and new attractions.

The zoo has been enlarged and many new cages have been put up on the grounds and filled with animal curiosities. In addition to the beasts [there last season a giant bull elk has been secured, a beast with a mammoth growth of horns and weighing over eight hundred pounds and a monster.

In the center of the park a large swan pond has been made and fountains placed there and a swan house has been built. There are also new cages of peacocks, monkeys, angora rabbits, gray squirrels, wild ducks and guinea pigs and numerous other creatures of interest.

The dancing pavilion has been entirely refitted and will be free to excursionists this season. It has been fitted with over three hundred gas lights and the new decorations consist of a set of war pictures and reproductions of famous paintings.

The extension of the P. K. & Y. electric railroad, to the park, to be ready to operate at the opening of the season, will make it the headquarters of pleasure seekers and those after rest and enjoyment, this year. The park is under the personal supervision of Mr. Henry E. Evans, who has done so much for York beach in the past and whose every effort is in behalf of that section.

LET THE PUBLIC DO THEIR DUTY.

The public meeting at Philbrick hall this evening in the interest of our public schools should attract an audience that would tax the hall to its full capacity. An address of interest to all will be delivered by Superintendent Dutton of the Brookline, Mass., schools, who is one of the leading educators of Massachusetts. Superintendent H. O. Morrison will make a short address and there will be singing, and music by Conservatory orchestra. The meeting will be presided over by Mayor Edward E. McIntire. Let every parent consider it his or her duty to be present. There will be an opportunity to learn much of interest to all.

The men who have been thrown out of employment in other industries are finding plenty of work and the prospects are that from three to six hundred men will find employment before the last of August.

In the morning, a game in the City league was played at the bicycle park between the Woods Brothers' team and the Wapamagos of Greenland, while in the afternoon the Portsmouths and Exeters opened the Inter-City league here, on the park diamond, and the Maplewoods and Piscataqua's contested at the Lookout for a purse of fifty dollars.

Two-base hits—F. Woods, Polhemus, W. Woods 2, Weeks. Three-base hits—G. Woods, Paul, Smith, C. Brackett, B. Wilbur. Home runs—Quinn. Earned runs—Portsmouths 12, Exeters 7. Struck out—Holmes, G. Passed ball—Quinn. Time—Two hours, fifteen minutes. Umpires—Fred Noyes and George Lane.

The first local game in the Inter-City league series attracted nearly three hundred people to the park and they got their money's worth. The Portsmouths won out, rather easily, as it proved. For the locals, Will Woods made four nice hits, Paul a three-bagger and Quinn a home run into the deep grass in left center, while Polhemus got in a pretty double that counted. Quinn's hit cleared three bases. Paul, a Kittery youngster of whom few in the crowd had ever heard, pitched fine ball for the Portsmouths, besides fielding his position very cleanly. Quinn was a hard working back stop, though a trifle stiff in getting them down to second. On the visiting team, Brackett's rousing triple into right was noteworthy, as well as Haley's pretty throws from short field. Smith, nimble as a cat, stopped several wild throws at second in a way that caught the crowd. Both nines showed lack of team work. Fred Noyes of Kittery was enlisted at the last minute as umpire and suited, on the whole.

Before the next game, flags should be located on the foul lines, to save a repetition of the disputes which occurred on Wednesday. It was a paying patronage, and the new league promises to be a success at this end, anyway.

The game at the Lookout was a hot one. It was won by the Maplewoods, twelve to ten.

Match Pool Game.

A very interesting game of matched pool was played at Mowe and Robbins' pool rooms, in the Philbrick block, on Wednesday evening. A large crowd of enthusiasts saw Harry Mowe run off 200, while Jack Tyne, the East Boston, (Mass.) expert, was scoring 188. Tyne gained a likely start at first, but Mowe overhauled him by the coolest sort of playing and won out amidst cheers.

Race At Rockingham Park.

At Rockingham park on Wednesday afternoon a matched race took place between three well-known horses. August Hett's mare, Texas Lillian, won first money with comparative ease, while Ruby B., owned by Eugene McCone of this city, and Itcy, owned by Frank Smith of Rochester, took second and third money, respectively. The judges were: Thomas McWilliams, who also officiated as starter, Edward Shepard and Leo McPhail. The purse was $100.

Notes of the D. Y.

Most of the veterans were fatigued when night came.

A large number of Eliot people were in this city on Memorial day.

In future the exercises should all take place at Monument square.

Five hundred people attended the exercises at Music hall in the evening.

The exercises at the soldiers' and sailors' monument were full of interest.

It was pleasant to see the veterans of the city united in the observance of the day.

Captain Louis Harris had charge of the arrangements for the exercises at Music hall.

The city band played well and showed a big improvement as a result of its practice.

Assistant Marshal Frank H. West marched at the head of a fine looking platoon of police.
